THE LEGISLATURE

by Chick Evans

Sales Tax. For the first time since the 1937 Legislature convened, powerful objection to a 50 percent increase in the sales tax as "inevitable" appeared. Whether or not the first cloud of opposition will grow larger, the Maine Merchants Assn. has offered a strong representation to the Legislature against the need or desirability of an increase.

Through its president, Russell M. Squire, Waterville, a former state senator, the Assn. places itself on record as "unalterably opposed to an increase," arguing that it has the benefit of being close to the people and their "across the counter thinking."

To date the governor and leaders of the legislative majority appear to have become resigned to the need for the one percent increase, although Senate Majority Leader Low, chairman of the important Taxation committee, investigated the possibility of "patchwork" adjustments to obtain sufficient revenue.

The Merchants' organization questioned the actual need for the amount of additional money and reminded the Legislature that revised income estimates suggest, as Guy Gannett Newspapers columnist Leonard J. Cohen reported, that "Gov Muskie and the Republican leaders who have gone along with his program are almost embarrassed by the prospect of having too much money, if his proposed increase in the sales tax is adopted."

Figures were cited to show that some $4,600,000 more than the total needed to pay for the governor's current service budget and his supplemental budget would become available in the next two years, if the sales tax were increased from two to three cents per dollar.

The Merchants' association further argued that we should separate the "wants" from the "needs" in the way of augmented state services. The MMA asked the legislators to remember that "every thing you want, you don't necessarily need. The one 'one' that we see at the moment is to 'hold the line'."

Meanwhile, in neighboring New Hampshire, Gov. Lane Drury flatly voiced his opposition to a proposed two percent sales tax in that state. In a public statement, Drury reminded proponents and opponents that both political parties opposed a sales tax in their 1956 platforms.

Some of the sentiment for and against the sales tax crystallized on the final legislative day when hearings were held by the Taxation Committee on two measures, one the administration proposal to raise the rate to three percent with some additional exemptions, the other to leave the rate at two percent, but make it apply across the board, with a share of the income going to the towns. About 100 people attended a protracted hearing scheduled which had to be continued until Friday, April 19. The Maine Merchants Assn. made a strong representation against the increase, stating the belief that the people do not want it. Spokesmen for the increase described it as the only equitable method of raising the money needed for expanded services.

Jacobs Report. With the statement that he as sponsor, and others for the Jacobs Report bill are being accused of "rank socialism," "communism" and even "bordering on communism thinking," Sen. Keith Low (R-Knox) tabled the Report bill in the Senate Wednesday, pending second reading and preparation of some technical amendments. The Senate majority leader did not identify those responsible for the "propaganda," but was aware of a pamphlet which characterized supporters of the Jacobs Report as being guilty of "un-Christian action toward children."

Under the Jacobs Report measure state school subsidies would be based upon a "cost of education program" with the goal of adequate education for every child. The measure, one of the most controversial of the session, will consider, also calls for higher teacher salaries, limitation of the number of pupils any teacher could instruct, further consolidation of schools and state aid for new school buildings.

The Jacobs bill was later passed by the House, where Sen. Keith Low (R-Knox) told that body that "every school building

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

As you know it has been the practice of this office to try and keep you informed of what is happening so far as we can in regard to Town affairs.

We have had a little trouble with the transmission with the front end loader. This has been taken up with the dealer, the manufacturer and also the Allison Division of General Motors Corp. who made the automatic transmission in the loader. Mr. Shew, a fine gentleman and well-trained mechanic from Allison, has been in town and very carefully gone over the situation and assures us the machine will be slightly better than when first delivered as he has replaced one or two parts that have been improved in the last year or so. It was his decision that the trouble was in the original casting and the manufacturer was at fault, the expense was taken care of by them.

Mr. Jordan, a civil and sanitary engineer from Portland, was in plan in the state is being held up" to see what is done with the measure. Sen. Low predicted much debate on the measure in the House.

When the bill came up in that body Friday afternoon, it was tabled pending third reading after a brief statement by Rep. Jesse P. Fuller (R-South Portland) who stressed the importance of the legislation and the need for full consideration, so that "boys and girls won't be short-changed."

Birthday Licensees. After your 1956 driver's license expires, succeeding permits will bear your birthdate. The governor signed the license bill this week. The 1956 slips will remain valid until the holder's 1956 birthday. The driver will be required to pay for each quarter of the second year until his 1959 birthday arrives, thus saving the state loss of revenue in the switch to the new system. The birth date system will save the motor vehicle division the annual headache of renewals all at the same time.

TO HOLD CANVASS OF CANCER CRUSADE ON TUESDAY, APRIL 23

Cancer Crusade Night, Tuesday, April 23, will mark the largest concerted drive against cancer in the state. Major-General Frank B. Lowe, USA, retired, state campaign chairman, said that the one-night, house-to-house canvass will be conducted from 6:30 to 8:30 o'clock. Thousands of volunteers from Bethel to Fort Kent have been enlisted and will be calling on door-to-door during the two-hour fund-raising effort.

Last year, The Maine Cancer Society raised $165,000.24. It is the hope of General Lowe and his Deputy, William J. Rogers of Auburn, that the 1957 Crusade will better that total.

General Lowe said that each volunteer will carry leaflets outlining the message of The Maine Cancer Society, an autonomous division of the American Cancer Society, that cancer is curable, if it is discovered and treated early enough.

General Lowe continued, "It is important to remember that The Maine Cancer Society exists to help solve the problem of cancer for all of us. It can carry on only if every one of us adds his support. Fight cancer with a check up and a check."

Mrs. Richard Bryant has volunteered to serve as treasurer of the Bethel area.

Bethel workers on the house-to-house canvass will be Mrs. Roy Butler, Mrs. Charles Heino, Mrs. Herbert Howe, Mrs. Clayton Bane, Mrs. Wilbur Myers, Mrs. Paul Kelley, Mrs. Dana Brooks, Mrs. Everett Chase, Mrs. Roland Gile, Mrs. Mary Davis, Mrs. Howard Cole, Mrs. A. W. Angewier, Mrs. Leland Brown, Mrs. Theodore Emery, Mrs. Frank Toward, Mrs. E. K. Roberts, Mrs. Mary Whitney, Mrs. Ernest Blake, Mrs. John Tebbett, Mrs. Paul Bodwell, Mrs. Linwood Felt, Mrs. Blanche Mackay, Business establishments to administer the Emergency Fund.

The Trustees elected Dr. John Townsend as a Trustee to serve after Mr. Roselle's resignation, which was received with deep regret. The Trustees will meet on April 24 to appoint a Banner Committee in Bethel and other committees as may be desirable.

The objective of the new Council is to combine the activities of the former Health Council and the Community Welfare Fund for better promotion of public health and service. All organizations formerly participating in the two groups, and others interested, are invited to name a representative to membership in the new Council.

Conservation Farming

In Oxford County

by Douglas L. Marston, Soil Conservation Service

The Oxford County Soil Conservation District has agreed to finance some experiments in chemical weeding and thinning in woodlands.

At the regular monthly meeting for March the District Supervisors voted to purchase 5 gallons of sodium arsenite to be used to establish a series of experimental plots to determine the economic feasibility of this type of woodlot improvement work. Clifford Green-son, of the Maine Forest Service and Douglas Marston of the Soil Conservation Service will conduct these experiments.

If the tests prove that this type of weeding is practical it is proposed that a District crew will be made available to do this work for District cooperators.

Another experimental project is being conducted to determine the practicability of using portable, gas-powered pruning clippers in young pine stands.

Elwin Gilman of Lovell recently completed a conservation plan for his farm. The plan calls for the establishment of 700 feet of sod and Douglas Marston of the Soil Conservation Service will conduct these experiments.

PREFERENCE FOR NEWSPAPERS

Writing in Editor & Publisher, Phillip N. Shuster says: "A new coast-to-coast check of representative automobile dealers shows a continued preference for newspaper advertising. A vast majority of 344 dealers questioned... declared they put this local form of advertising ahead of all other media."

An editorial in the same issue of the same magazine refutes the claim that TV is dominant among young people. It cites a factual survey in which 39 per cent of 18 and 19 years olds questioned said newspapers are "harder to do without" whereas only 18 per cent said the same thing about television.

Newspapers aren't only here to stay - they're still the leaders of all media.

Hated is active, and every paradox alike; there is but one step from envy to hate. 40-1

SAFETY RULES FOR POWER MOWERS

A power mower is a potentially lethal weapon unless it's handled with a bit of judgment. Here are some do's and don'ts for its safe operation, given by the editors of "Changing Times," The Kiplinger Magazine.

Clear the lawn of stones, wire and other debris before mowing. Don't work on the mower, adjust it or remove foreign matter, unless the motor is stopped. Be sure that small children and pets are well out of the way. Don't use an electric mower when the grass is wet, and don't smoke while fueling a gasoline mower. Learn how to disengage the clutch quickly. And finally, turn off the motor before leaving the machine unattended.
